THE HOME NEWS.

The damage to shade trees in town is great, and will be felt next summer.

The Masonic lodge meets Tuesday next. The new officers will be installed.

Tuesday was pension day, and the old vets were on hand early fixing up their papers.

The big Hume distillery, at Silver Creek, was totally destroyed by fire Monday night. The loss is estimated to reach half a million dollars.

Charley Rice, the well-known and clever hotel man, has sold his house in Danville to J. H. Myer, of Stanford.
Mr. Rice will go to Hot Springs to look for a location.

The Park trees were trimmed in the nick of time. Had the old limbs been there when the sleet fell, nothing but a few stumps would be left to tell the tale.

No. 4 has been "away off" for nearly two weeks. Trains are late all over the country now, and as this one has a connection from the far South, its no wonder she is frequently late.

Called Meeting at Fork.

There will be a called meeting at the Fork next Sunday, Feb. 9, at nine o'clock a. m., sharp, for the purpose of calling a pastor. All members are earnestly requested to be present.

Key Peas Elect Officers.

Garrard Lodge No. 29 elected the following excellent officers at last meeting: J. W. Elmore, C. C.; Dr. J.
M. Aetion, V. C.; Jno. M. Duncan, President; J. Joseph, M. A.; G. B. Swinebrod, K. R. S. R. Kinnaird, M. F.; J.
W. Sweeney, M. W.

Secures Fine Horse.

Mr. W. B. Burton, the hustling young horseman, has just gotten possession of the celebrated saddle horse, Preston, and will have same at his stable here in a few days. This horse has taken more blue ties than any in this section of the state, and has a National reputation. He got the animal from Patric Donald, of Lexington.
Everyone interested in horse matters knows of Preston, and his coming to Lancaster is hailed with delight by those engaged in the business.

Scarcity of Help.

During the bitter cold weather, it has been a hardship to find washerwomen. Why not send your articles to the Danville Steam Laundry, and have them done up properly? It will not cost much, and save no end of worry.

Important Meeting.

There will be work in the Second and Third Ranks at the K. P. lodge tomorrow, Friday night. Other very important business to be attended to.
The lodge is starting out with fine prospects for a revival of the old-time interest.

Col. Henderson Quite Ill.

Col. John Henderson is lying quite ill at the boarding house of Mrs. Pollard, on Stanford street. He first had a deep cold, which brought on other complications and he is now in an extremely critical condition. Friends are doing all in their power for him.
His daughter, Miss Alice, who teaches at the Graded School, is with him constantly.

Buys An Interest.

Mr. Owen W. Shugars, formerly deputy under county clerk Jno. M.
Duncan, has purchased an interest in the dry goods and clothing store of Burnett & Co., and is now wearing a broad smile behind the counters of that establishment. Messrs. Burnett have built up a nice business in Lancaster, and proven that they sell only first-class goods at most reasonable prices. The Record bespeaks for the new firm a liberal share of patronage.

Big Dam Gives Way.

The dam, at the lower end of the immense lake, at the Pilgrimage Distillery, near town, sprang a leak Thursday night, and in short order cut a hole which let out all the water, save about three feet feet. A force of hands were quickly at work repairing the leak, and it is thought that only a few of the many nice fish were swept away. With the large amount of snow, ice and rain in the past few days, it is believed the lake will soon fill again.

Helping Hand Society.

The Ladies Helping Hand Society, of the Baptist church will give a Box social at the parsonage on Richmond street Valentine evening. A large number of boxes, filled with delicious edibles, will be sold to the highest bidder. Sherbert and cake will be served and a taffy stand will also be a feature. There will be an old-fashioned spelling bee, and prizes will be awarded to the best and poorest speller. Any who desire may enter the contest. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Look Out.

If you have occasion to come up town during the night, it will be good idea to attend to your business and not prowl around any of the business houses. Mat Siler, the night watchman, has his eye peeled at all times, and if he calls "Who's there?" you had better tell him, or you will get plugged with a 45. Siler is doing his duty to the entire satisfaction of all the business men who went into the arrangement, and his frequent visits to the stores, banks, offices, etc., is the best move that has ever been put on foot in Lancaster. Each business man pays a dollar a month, and the aggregate pays Siler fairly well for remaining up the entire night.

Heavy Loss.

The damage by the recent sleet is greater on the telephone people than any other business interest in town.
Nearly every wire in town was broken in several places, and in some cases the poles were snapped short off.
It would have been folly to replace the wires before all danger of a repetition of the trouble was passed, and why some block-heads could kick about the crippled service is hard to see. The same case was with the electric lights.
With nearly all the wires down, anyone with a thimbleful of sense knows that to start the dynamo while the wires were crossed and grounded would have ruined every piece of machinery in the plant. Its always a mighty good idea to look into a matter before shooting off too much "jaw."

Tackled Wrong Man.

Jim Buck Baughman, a notorious negro, who frequently figures in the police and other courts, undertook to "take de Chute" Monday night, and going into the house of Cary Mullins, The Record's faithful engineer, proceeded to clean up the place. Mullins says Baughman attacked his daughter, and when he remonstrated with him, Baughman tried to kill Mullins with a knife. Mullins, who is an old soldier, and as cool as a cucumber, backed to a bureau and got a big 45 Colts revolver. As he fired, someone knocked against him and the ball struck Baughman in a glancing manner, on the forehead. Only a slight wound was made. Of course Mullins will be promptly acquitted, but he should be re-arrested for falling to kill Jim Buck.

Remains Critically Ill.

Mr. Jno. M. Higginbotham remains in a critical condition, and all hopes of his recovery have about been abandoned. He has never rallied from the first stroke of the paralysis, and has remained in a semi-conscious condition ever since. His death is expected at any moment.

Old Stamps.

Mr. Robt. Bettis, of near Lancaster, showed us a lot of stamps he recently found hidden in an old outhouse on the farm to which he recently moved.
They bear ancient dates and are quite interesting. Collectors of such articles would no doubt pay Mr. Bettis a neat sum for them.

A Judge at Winchester.

Prof. J. H. Patterson, Principal of the Graded School, was in Winchester Friday night, having been asked to serve as a judge in the Inter-Collegiate Declamatory Contest. He is well-known in educational circles over the state, and his fairness and good judgment has made many friends.

To Fiddle at Nicholasville.

An old fiddlers contest will be held at the Rink, in Nicholasville on the 17th, and all the prominent old wielders of the bow in this section will participate. This contest will be given on a larger scale than any held hereabouts and the fun promises to be great. Dont forget the date, Feb. 17.

Barnett Appointed.

The many friends of Col. D. R. Collier, of this city, regret that he failed to land the Surveyorship of the Louisville port. He was strongly endorsed, and Gov. Bradley made a trip to Washington to see the president in his behalf. The reappointment of Mr. Barnett is said to mean that Mr.
Jno. W. Yerkes has the say over Gov.
Bradley with T. Roosevelt.

The Right Way.

While the electric lights were crippled last week, the merchants, and many of the housekeepers "grinned" and bore the darkness with great patience. It causes all kind of trouble to have to fish out an old, greasy lamp, and more than that is to be compelled to work or read by one.
The light company is entitled to much praise for the rapidity with which the trouble was remedied.

"Working on Both Ends."

A Frankfort dispatch says that Senator Geo. T. Farris and Representative Tomlinson, of this city, have introduced an anti-cigarette bill in both houses. It states that the reason for introducing in both houses is to save time and work on the measure "at both ends" of the Legislature. This may be very well, but if the parents of cigarette fiends would get a barrel stave and "work on one end" it will accomplish more good.

Rowland.

The Interior Journal says: If the Legislature makes an appropriation to represent Kentucky at the St. Louis Louisiana Purchase Exposition, as it doubtless will, Mr. Sidney V. Rowland, of Danville, would make an ideal commissioner, and we suggest his name as one of the number. Having had 20 odd years experience in mining he is perfectly familiar with the mineral resources of the State, in addition to being well posted on all of its material interests. He is a first class Kentucky gentleman of the old school, and his long adherence to the Democratic party certainly entitles him to this recognition. If appointed, we feel sure that he will fill the position as creditably as his distinguished nephew, Hon. David Rowland Francis, did the gubernatorial chair of Missouri.

Mr. Nixon Perkins Dead.

A telegram was received from San-Antonio, Texas, Monday, announcing the death of Mr. Nixon Perkins, whose serious illness was noted in last issue of The Record. His wife and son, Ed, started for his bed side last Friday, but he died before they reached there. As this is written, no arrangements have been made for the burial, though the remains are on the way to Lancaster for interment. Mr. Perkins was one of Garrard county's most prominent and influential citizens.
He was a straight-forward, honest man, and a friend to all who went to him for help. He was in good shape financially, owning one of the best farms in the county. He was an honest man and a true christian. His loss will be deeply felt. He leaves a widow, four sons and two daughters to mourn his death. As stated in a previous issue of this paper, Mr. Perkins went to Texas in search of health, but the trip never proved of any benefit from the start.

Newspaper Laws.

Any person who takes the paper regularly from the post office, whether directed to his name or whether he is subscriber or not, is responsible for the pay.

The Courts have decided that refusing to take news papers and periodicals from the post office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is Prima Facie evidence of Intentional Fraud.

A Seasonable "Poem."

While the weather is so miserable, read the following, taken from a sunny exchange, and you will doubtless come to the conclusion that there is yet something to be thankful for.

When the gray's on the buckwheat and the sausages are hot, when the steam is floating upward from the shining coffee pot, when the cook stirs up the batter that was set the night before, when little Bob and Clara smack their lips and yell for more; oh, 'tis then a man is always feeling pretty near his best—if there isn't trouble with the works beneath his vest—and it's then he ought to humbly thank the Lord for what he's got—when the gray's on the buckwheat and the sausages are hot. There's a fragrance that comes floating from the pancakes on the plate that should nerve a man to action—make him strong for any fate. There is joy, there's inspiration in the smear on Bessie's chin, and it's good to see dear Willie as he scoops the sausage in, and what sweeter music is there than the flapping, slapping sound that stuffs cook produces as she stirs the stuff around? Oh, each precious, luscious mouthful quickly finds the proper spot, when the gray's on the buckwheat and the sausages are hot.

Boots and Bankers mix.

Several days ago, during the breaking up of the sleet, a big-boned, half grown negro walked into the National Bank and made complaint that his boots he had purchased there in December were leaking. Asst. Cashier Robinson, after examining the boots carefully, told him that the boots they sell were never before known to "run over at the heel." He told him however that Mr. Embury, who was present, might have sold them to him.
After examining the boots the efficient book-keeper was positive he had not made the sale. The boy was told that Mr. Denny, who was then at dinner, might have sold them, and, if such was the case, he was sure to get a new pair. When the Cashier came in he examined the boots and said while he had not sold them he thought Mr. R. Kinnaird had disposed of them, and that he would be in presently and make things alright. When the clever Mayor came in, he examined the boots, but "couldn't tell" whether he had sold them or not. He told the boy, however, that if he were "sure" he had sold the boots he would be glad to give him a new pair. Before this occurrence it perhaps was not generally known that the clever gentlemen, above named run a "boot department" along with their extensive banking business.

Seldom has there been such a warning in a great industry, and in so short a time, as that of the manufacture of bicycles. On Jan. 1, 1900, only two years ago, there were 288 bicycle factories in the United States. A year later the number was reduced to 60, and now there are only 24 such factories. And yet the bicycle is now a regular business necessity and not a fad as it was when first brought out.

The trusts must be accountable for a large part of the reduction in factories. The fact that everybody almost has a machine is another explanation.

More than 2,000 people shook hands with Rear Admiral Schley at a reception given him by the Board of Trade in Louisville last Thursday. He was given a luncheon at the Pendergast Club during the afternoon and at night he was a guest at the first annual banquet of the Board of Trade at the Galt House. Mrs. Schley was the guest of honor at a reception given by Mrs. Marion E. Taylor Thursday afternoon. When Mr. Taylor announced "Admiral Schley," for a speech, there was applause, tumultuous and continued. The Admiral adjusted his glasses, cleared his throat, bowed in acknowledgement of the applause and began his speech when the tumult had practically subsided, in a clear voice.

He said by way of introduction that he had made an agreement to shoot any man who talked Santiago with him, so he must perforce choose another subject. Instead, he told of the heroic death of Lieut. Hugh McKee, of Kentucky, who fell mortally wounded by Admiral Schley's side while storming a fort in Korea in 1899. The narrative was thrilling, and it could not have been delivered in better fashion.

CENTRAL RECORD.

— An Independent, Local Newspaper. — ISSUED WEEKLY.
 LOUIS LANDRAM, Editor and Publisher.
 Lancaster, Ky. Feb. 6th 1902.

Is his address at the Board of Trade banquet to Admiral Selby, in Louisville, last week, Gov. Beckham said: "I am proud of being an American citizen; I am proud of the glorious history of this Union of ours; proud of its achievements in the past; proud of its great statesmen, its great soldiers, and its great sailors. But, if our distinguished guest will forgive me, I am prouder still of being a Kentuckian. Our State has suffered much by misrepresentation and abuse, and I am prepared to answer the calumny uttered against us by any outsider. I wish to say that we have within the bounds of this State, from its extreme eastern limits down to where the Father of Waters touches its westernmost lines, as brave, as true, as patriotic and as law-abiding citizenship as can be found anywhere under the stars and stripes. Our people are law-abiding; the judgments of our courts are respected; life, liberty and property are as safe in Kentucky as anywhere else."

This certainly has the right ring to it, and if the people will now back up the gallant young executive in his effort to show outsiders that we are civilized, the effect will be wonderfully good.

If ever there was a good time for Lexington to make a pull for the state capital, that time is right now. Every member of the General Assembly is in favor of erecting new buildings, but only a few are willing to see the money spent on structures in Frankfort. If the matter of removal can be left to the people, they will settle it in thundering tones. As for the penitentiary, there's no use of removing it, and we understand, there is no law requiring it to be located at the seat of government. If Lexington will spend a little money in circulating petitions to the Legislature, they will get the signatures of nearly

 A most deplorable accident occurred in our neighborhood Saturday evening. Luther Sebastian, son of Wm. Sebastian, had returned from hunting and laid his loaded rifle nearby while he sat warming before the fire. Smaller children were playing in the room and one knocked the gun off and Luther was instantly killed, the ball entering the head at base of brain. To say this news shocked us and brought untold sorrow, would but half express the deep grief we feel. Luther had been our pupil for four years, he was bright beyond measure, full of life, pleasant with school mates and teacher, and at all times honest, brave and truthful. If any question arose on the play ground, Luther would always state it as it occurred, though it implicated himself. Only a few days ago we remarked to a friend, that "If Luther told us anything we believed it as though we had seen it." Is it any wonder that we were so drawn to this noble boy with such sterling qualities, loved him almost as our very own? It is a strange dispensation of Providence that he has been taken so early in life, but "God doeth all things well." Bereaved parents try to say "God's will done. Sleep on loved one in calm unbroken sleep." "Now we see through a glass darkly, but then face to face, we shall know even as we are known."

Miss Louise Kauffman has been quite ill at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Lusk, of Hustonville.

A very good likeness of our postmaster, Mr. W. T. West, appeared in Saturday's Courier Journal.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Walden are returning over the arrival on a son, who has been christened Herring Campbell.

Miss Helen Thurnmond, of Broadhead, has been visiting Mrs. U. D. Simpson at the Mason hotel, Stanford avenue.

Mrs. J. Randolph Harris, and baby, will leave this week to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cash, at Turnersville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Embry entertained the "Club of Games" Thursday evening. The club will be entertained by Mr. Guy Davidson next Thursday evening.

Miss Mollie F. Smith has retired from the clerical force of R. H. Batsons dry goods store, and desires to thank her friends for many favors while she was thus employed.

Miss Pearl Burnside, Tevis Carpenter, of Stanford, and Emily Chenault, of Richmond, who have been the popular guests of Miss Christine Bradley, left this week for their homes.

Mr. Sam McDonald, one of the cleverest gentlemen "on the road" was here a few days since to see his customers. He has been traveling for the Alms-Doeple Company, Cincinnati, for twenty-six years, and has "made" Lancaster during all that time. Mr. McDonald is a polished gentleman and enjoys the respect and confidence of a wide circle of friends.

Capt. White is some better, though still confined to his bed.

A very enjoyable informal dance was given at the Mason hotel Friday evening in honor of the visiting young ladies. The music was furnished by Burnside's orchestra. The following young ladies were present: Misses Tevis Carpenter, Pearl Burnside, of Stanford, Letitia Brown, of Lexington, Emily Chenault, of Richmond, Sue Ogilvie, of Point Leavel, Christine Bradley, Alberta Anderson, Maggie Tomlinson and Allie Marksbury. The young gentlemen were, Will Denny, John Burnside, Branham Beazley, Sam Denny, Louis West, Ed. Doty, Marshal Denny, Charlie West, Louis Herndon, Wade Terrill, H. T. Logan and Ollie Terrill.

Miss Christine Bradley entertained a few friends at cards Thursday evening in honor of Misses Tevis Carpenter and Emily Chenault. Miss Bradley certainly knows how to make her guests enjoy themselves, and to be invited to her home means an evening of delightful entertainment. Having received so much attention, one would suppose Miss Bradley to be of that vain type, so common among people of prominence, but, on the contrary, she is far from it. She is a gracious, sweet little lady, beloved and honored by all who have the pleasure of her acquaintance. Euchre was the game enjoyed Thursday evening, followed by a supper of substantial and ices. The ladies first prize was won by Miss Pearl Burnside, the second, by Miss Alberta Anderson. The first prize for gentlemen was presented to Mr. Ed Doty, the second to Mr. Charlie West. The guests were Misses Pearl Burnside, Alberta Anderson, Margaret Tomlinson, Tevis Carpenter, Emily Chenault, Allie Marksbury, Messrs Ed Doty, John Burnside, Sautley Hughes, Will Burton, Ben Herndon, Louis West, Sam Denny, Branham Beazley and Charlie West.

Cured Consumption.
Mrs B W Evans, Clearwater, Kan., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months; the doctors stated he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup and it cured him. Saved Him From Trouble.
There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J S Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the producing, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." Beware of counterfeits.

Clerk's Wise Suggestion.
"I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach," writes M S Mead, leading pharmacist of Attleboro, Mass. "I could eat hardly anything without suffering several hours. My clerk suggested I try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which I did with most happy results. I have had no more trouble and when one can go to eating mince pie, cheese, candy and nuts after such a time, their digestion must be pretty good. I endorse Kodol Dyspepsia Cure heartily." You don't have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests your food. 1m Grasp The Opportunity.

The above heading means a great deal to those requiring or intending to buy any kind of a Monument this year.

One of our firm has just returned from a six weeks trip to the leading Granite Quarries, where he placed orders for ten car loads of Monuments for early spring delivery; the largest amount ever ordered at one time for Central Kentucky. By purchasing such a large lot at the duldest season of the year, we secured it at unusually low prices; and as it will be shipped at carload freight rates, which also means considerable saving, we are offering it at correspondingly low prices.

Now is your opportunity to order a Monument of the best grade of Barre granite, and of artistic design and execution, lettered in the quarries, shipped direct to your own town, and delivered when desired, at very low prices. If you wish to see our prices, or further information, write us.

The Last Heard Of It.
"My little boy took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over house," says F D Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure very pleasant to take. Besides, coming to the extent of weakness, grace and symmetry, often lose these powers when nature is in its period of gestation imposes upon them the duty of child-birth. Properly understood, motherhood is a season of pleasant anticipation. Only in rare cases is it made so however, without artificial aid. A liniment for outside use, is preferable to anything else. It is the friend of the mother, and is used through-out the entire period of pregnancy, will soothe and relax the tissues, soften the muscles, and make elastic tendons and supple sinews. This celebrated liniment removes stiffness and promotes expansion of the fibres when under strain. Harrodsburg Democrat:—A mule trader says the trade in the South is very different from what it was a few years ago, and that a common cotton mule, or anything that can stand up to a plow, will be taken by the buyers in that section at present. The buyer, he says, in turn sells the mule to a negro at double what it cost him, taking a mortgage on the negro's team and cotton crop, with interest at 25 per cent, and, of course, generally has a chance to sell the animal over again; so he makes money on the animal no matter if it be of inferior stock.

THE TIME-CLOCKS OF LIFE.

Measure Duration by High Thinking and Noble Service—Some Not in Good Working Order.

It is a common thing to hear one say in beautiful quotation that we do not live in hours or days, but by "heart-throbs." It is very true—and yet the heart-throbs do not always measure time as it ought to be measured. It depends on the character of those heart-throbs. How many live on through a day or a week or a year—and yet do not live at all; it is nothing more than existence. No one would say of the brute that he lives; in one sense he does, but in a very narrow sense; he exists—nothing more. Days are alike to him; there is no aspiration, no seeking after high ideals. When the writer of the psalm said: "Be not as the horse or mule," he did not necessarily confine himself to a suggestion of intractability, but of real life. When a poet sang: "Be not like dumb, driven cattle," he had in mind life, real spiritual life. It is the spiritual life that marks time. He who has no spiritual life, whose days are all alike to him, also has a life-clock; but it marks dead hours, not living moments. Mary Emerson, speaking of her associates, said: "We measure duration by the number of our thoughts, by the activity of reason, the discovery of truths, the acquirement of virtue, the approach to God." High thinking and noble service are the time-clocks of life. How does your clock measure time?—Baptist Union.

GENIUS OF A FAMOUS SCOUT.

What an Ordinary Trail on the Desolate Plains Revealed to Frank Gouard.

The passing of the Indian scout will be another page of the romantic torn from the world's history which is ever becoming more prosaic. Buffalo Bill is an able man and true as steel. But for a detective ability that Sherlock Holmes himself might envy Frank Gouard, a Hawaiian, brought up among the Indians, stands probably without a peer. Gouard is tall and very muscular, with huge shoulders and chest. He gives evidence of his keen sense, and dandy complexion, unlike that of an Indian. He says himself that he merely remembers the fact that, as a baby, he was brought from across the water. His long living with the Indians, he acquired a perfect knowledge of their habits, traditions, and even methods of thought. Hence he was invaluable in the army when it was called upon to march against the hostile red men, says the Washington Times.

Lieut. Jordan, of the metropolitan police force, was with Gen. Crook's command in its memorable campaign against the Sioux. Gouard rendered yeoman's service during this trying period when the horror of the Custer massacre was very fresh, especially in the minds of the devoted band which hurried after his slayers. Lieut. Jordan is, it is believed, the only man in this city who can recall from personal experience the terrors of that memorable chase. Speaking of Gouard, he said:

"I never met a man with the faculty of Gouard. He could tell a footprint in the grass, where the ordinary observer would notice nothing. Moreover, he would tell whether the footprint was left by a white man or an Indian, and, if the latter, to what tribe he belonged. To be sure he explained the matter by saying that each tribe wore a certain style of moccasins, but the distinction was sometimes so trivial as to render Gouard's feat a very remarkable one. The Indians, as you doubtless know, when on the warpath march in single file, those behind treading in the footprints of the leader, so as to leave a single pair of marks. The cartridges used for carrying the squaws and children and supplies were formed of two poles lashed together, one at each side of the horse with the ends trailing along the ground.

"These were of the same width and one was driven in the path of the other. But in spite of these precautions Gouard could tell, with practical exactness, the number of warriors, squaws and papposes that had passed along a trail, in addition to the tribe they belonged to and other particulars which were hidden from the ordinary observer, and the determining of which, to those who did not know the extraordinary capabilities of the scout, seemed wholly impossible. He would notice two sticks laid upon the ground and they would tell him of a sign of warning left for the Indians for their people. There are very many of this latter kind of marks by which the Indians counsel each other.

"In short, Gouard had reduced the faculty of observation, which most civilized people use so carelessly, to an exact science. The Indians, also, as you probably know, are keen observers. You will never be able to catch their eye, perhaps, or to know just where they are looking, but they will see much more than the average white man. The only occasion when an Indian gaze is fixed at a great distance. They have a way on the plains of sweeping the horizon, shading their eyes with one hand the while."

WHAT BOTHERED THE COOK.

Her Cooking Was So Good It Caused Her Employer to Overeat Himself.

A lady had a cook who gave her every satisfaction, and she was under the impression that the cook was equally satisfied with her place, states London Tit-Bits. But one morning, to the lady's intense surprise, the cook gave her the usual month's notice.

"What do you want to leave for, Jane?" asked the mistress. "I am very much pleased with you, and I thought you were quite comfortable here."

"Yes, mum, I'm comfortable enough in a way, but—"

The cook hesitated and fidgeted about. "But what?" queried the mistress. "Well, mum," she blurted out, "the fact is, the master doesn't seem to appreciate my cookery, and I can't stop in a place where my efforts to please are wasted; so I'd rather leave."

"But what makes you think that your master doesn't appreciate your cookery?" Has he ever complained to you?" asked the lady.

"No, mum; but my late master was always being laid up through over-eating—he said he couldn't help doing so because my cookery was so delicious; but master here hasn't been laid up once all the three months I've been with you, and that's just what bothers me so, mum!"

Walking Match on Shipboard. A feature of the voyage of the steamer Coptic, from China, to San Francisco, was a five-day walking match. Sixteen of the passengers entered the competition. The deck was measured, and from six o'clock in the morning until six o'clock in the evening the contestants walked encouraged by the plaudits of more sedentary passengers, who drew up their deck chairs close to the space allotted to the walkers and watched the match. Lieut. Heinrich, of the German army, was the winner, walking 123 miles. A. J. Flaherty, of the Peking consular cadre, was second with a score of 116 miles.—Chicago Chronicle.

BLUFF AND LUNT.

The "Honest But Well-Meaning Man" Who Rides Rough-Shod Over Others' Feelings.

Just because the machinery of life is so apt to be heated one keenly appreciates those who are ever deftly pouring the cooling oil by their patience, their tact their sweetness, and their sympathy. And one resents keenly that class of people who are honest and well meaning, but who are persistent in their bluntness and not ashamed. I mean the man who is credited with what is called a bluff, blunt manner, and who credits himself with a special quality of downrightness and straightforwardness. He considers it far better to say what he thinks, and boasts that he never minces his words; and people make all kinds of excuses for him, and rather talk as if he were a very fine fellow, beside whom civil-spoken persons were little better than hypocrites.

As a matter of fact, no one can calculate the pain this outspoken gentleness causes in a single day, both in his family and outside. Nor have I ever been able to understand why he is praised, or even tolerated, and why he is not sharply dealt with as an offender against the social peace. He is said to deal faithfully with any person whom he disapproves; it would be right to say he deals insolently, and what is called faithfulness is generally unpardonable impudence. "His bark" it is said, "is worse than his bite," and one hopes that it may be; but I do not see what consolation there is for me, when this outspoken person barks at my heels, in the fact that he has not at any time bitten me. I object to his barking, and if he persists I am justified in using a stick. No man has any right to lecture his neighbor, or to intrude upon his neighbor's privacy, or to wound his neighbor's feelings, and when he does so in his role of the plain-spoken man, then he ought to be made to understand the difference between reality and rudeness, and be taught to keep a civil tongue in his head.—Ian MacLaren, in the Christian Endeavor World.

TRYING TEST OF CHARACTER.

The Christian Duty of Apologizing for a Wrong Thoughtlessly Done to Another.

The hardest thing for some persons to do is to apologize to another whom they have wronged. Yet there is scarcely any other way in which greatness of character may be more strikingly manifested. Everyone is liable to be overcome by sudden temptation and say or do that which he afterwards regrets. Then comes the struggle with the better self. What shall he do? Humble himself and apologize, or yield to his pride and let the matter pass, perhaps to rankle in his own breast, and in the breast of him who has been wronged? He is a great man who is willing to publicly acknowledge his error and ask forgiveness. This was done by a Methodist bishop who had spoken sharply to a brother at a recent conference, and the act not only healed a wounded heart, but increased the respect and reverence for the bishop himself. The greater the difference in position, the more impressive may be the effect of an apology. It is related that while professor of artillery practice and natural philosophy at Lexington college "Stonewall" Jackson had occasion to censure a cadet who had given, as he believed, the wrong solution of a problem. On thinking the matter over at home he found that the pupil was right and the teacher wrong. It was late at night and in the depth of winter, but he immediately started off to the institute, some distance from his quarters, and sent for the cadet. The delinquent, answering with much trepidation the untimely summons, found himself, to his astonishment, the recipient of a frank apology. The lesson of that act, however, made a more lasting impression upon the student than any he ever learned in the classroom.

THEY PUZZLE THE MEDICS.

Some New Diseases That Physicians Can Neither Diagnose Nor Cure.

When Solomon declared that there is nothing new under the sun the art of the physician was yet in its infancy. All practitioners of the present day bear testimony to the fact that new diseases of the human system are constantly developing and of necessity they require new modes of treatment, says a London paper.

One disease which the doctors are trying to find out about, with very little success, is beri-beri, which seems to be identical with the "sleeping sickness" of the west coast of Africa. The attention which the medical profession has paid recently to eastern and tropical diseases has brought beri-beri to the fore, whereas little scientific attention used to be paid to it. Negroes are peculiarly susceptible to the disease and on the west coast of Africa whole villages of natives have been known to lie down and sleep themselves to death. Some time ago there was an outbreak of this disease in a lunatic asylum in Dublin, and several patients slept to death. How this malady, supposed to be peculiar to the tropics and the far east, came to appear in Dublin is a mystery. Recently the Norwegian bark Tannus put into Falmouth, England, having had seven cases and four deaths from beri-beri on her way from Jackson to appear in Dublin is a mystery. For the disease is unknown in Florida, English and American soldiers serving in the far east rarely suffer from beri-beri, but French and Spanish garrisons are greatly subject to it. A couple of years ago out of a garrison of 250 at a post in French Tonquin 50 died from beri-beri.

As if the doctors were not bothered enough with the old diseases, a new one has appeared in Sardinia and Sicily. The doctors in these Mediterranean islands recently noticed that some of the peasants showed symptoms of poisoning from eating beans. They developed curious symptoms and all of them were overcome with a drowsy stupor. In some cases those predisposed to the disease have been seen to fall unconscious simply from inhaling the scent of a bean field in flower. Yet to the average person there is nothing poisonous about beans. Horrible thought! Suppose this new disease should spread to Boston.

Another disease which puzzles doctors is that form of idiosyncrasy known as cretinism. Why does it exist only in certain districts? It has been said that it is epidemic only in limestone regions, yet there are plenty of places where the rock is of this character and yet the disease is unknown. For instance, it is very rare in England, where there is plenty of magnesium limestone, and prevalent in similar districts in France. It generally is put down as being peculiar to mountain districts, yet on the island of Niderwerth, below Colibz on the Rhine, there are 131 cases among 750 people.
